ABOUT THE EVENT

The Nanotechnology World Conference (NTWC 2026) is a prominent global event that promotes nanotechnology research, engineering, and practical applications. NTWC 2026, now in Thailand 18-20 October, 2026, will bring together international experts, pioneering researchers, and industry innovators to share achievements, explore applications, and discuss nanotechnology's rising importance in healthcare, energy, electronics, environmental science, and other fields.

Nanotechnology is revolutionizing industries on a worldwide level. According to recent research, the worldwide nanotechnology industry is expected to exceed USD 150 billion by 2026, driven by rising demand in industries including as medical, renewable energy, and sophisticated manufacturing. With over 10,000 active research labs globally and millions of published articles, nanotechnology is at the forefront of innovation. However, rapid advancement creates new issues, ranging from safety and regulation to accessibility and ethical use. As the area advances, there is a pressing need for collaborative frameworks and the proper integration of technology into society.

NTWC 2026 is intended to meet this demand. Our goal is to inspire dynamic discussions, promote interdisciplinary learning, and generate realworld solutions through hands on sessions, keynotes, and panel discussions. The meeting intends to speed up the development of scalable nanotechnologies while addressing global issues such as climate change, medical treatment, and resource shortages. This event provides a unique chance for scientists, engineers, entrepreneurs, policymakers, and students to collaborate in a highly engaging setting. NTWC 2026 provides the right forum for displaying your research, forming new relationships, or exploring commercialization opportunities.

We are committed to providing an exceptional convention experience. Our organizing staff will make certain that your work is presented with the most excellent visibility and impact, thereby shaping the future of nanotechnology for the welfare of mankind.
