ABOUT THE CONFERENCE

We extend our cordial invitation to the Public Health World Conference (PHWC 2025) that will be held from 20 June 2025 to 22 June 2025 in Singapore. This conference focuses on coming up with new thoughts, exchange of ideas, pushing for creativity, and resuscitating public health studies. Public health is a very crucial aspect of the growth of the society globally. Thus, this requires the immediate attention of researchers and scientists from all over the globe.

The main objective of the conference is to promote global collaboration in exploring new trends and directions of developments in the field of public health surveillance. Moreover, it seeks to encourage the establishment of global networks that would enhance the smooth transition of concepts, knowledge, and resources on emerging health issues related to public health.

The conference is in a hybrid format for the convenience of the participants. The event is lined up with insightful and thought-provoking scientific discussions. These include various presentations, guest lectures by esteemed global faces, and oral, and poster presentations.

The symposium aims to work hand in hand with researchers, scientists as well as experts in public health to facilitate equity in health and develop sustainable healthcare for the future.
